From The IOPPOA President

Hi Neighbors

We have just had the last triathlons of the year. On Saturday the race was all women. It was the "Race for the Cure," which supports so much. As I looked at the corner assignments in the e-mail sent out by the co-ordinator Hugh Blair I noticed the same names on the corner assignments. It seems a shame that no new people want to volunteer. The association gets paid for us volunteering which goes towards so many things. Not sure what it's about call Hugh and partner a Marshall to see how much fun it is.

By the time this newsletter comes out we will have had the Halloween party which is always a good time. Thanks go out to Terry Aikens and all her helpers for coordinating this event.

As the holidays are approaching I ask everyone to please slow down on our roads, remember the speed limit on Lake Mary Jane Road is 35 mph.

Also that the children are back in school and we have three bus pickups and drop offs every day.

We have the neighborhood garage sale on November 4 & 5, and also "The Kids Fishing Tournament" on November 12, kids make sure Mom and Dad get you registered.

Next month we have the Members Christmas Party on the 11th, which is always a hit.

Have a safe and happy Thanksgiving

Thanks Al

Thanksgiving

The simple meaning of 'Thanksgiving' is the expression of gratitude and the giving of thanks. The Thanks Giving Day is simply directed towards the Almighty. God has created all of us and He has provided all the necessary things for our survival in this world. No matter how tough our life could be He is always there to take care of us and to give us all the good things. So we express our gratitude towards Him and thank Him for the kindness and blessings that the Lord has bestowed upon us. To praise Him we verbally express admiration towards Him to honor and glorify His greatness with prayers and songs. At the heart of the celebration of Thanks Giving is the idea of giving thanks for the goodness of the season past.

So gear up to have a fun filled Thanksgiving this year. Happy Thanksgiving !!!

Cheesy Corn Puffs

Recipe courtesy Food Network Magazine

Prep Time: 40 min Level: Easy Serves: about 24 puffs
Inactive Prep Time: —
Cook Time: 30 min

Ingredients

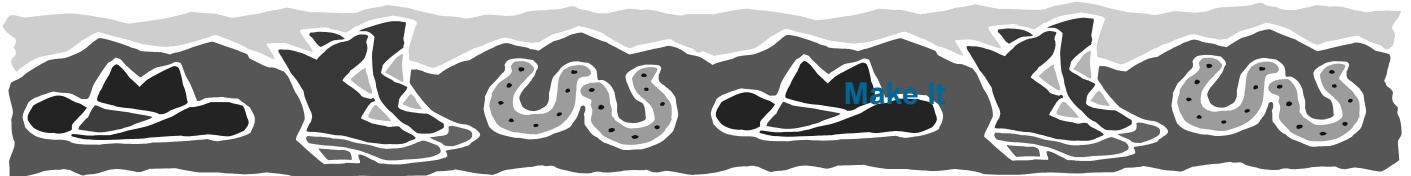

1 cup canned cream-style corn
4 tablespoons unsalted butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
3 large eggs
1/2 cup shredded pepper jack cheese, plus more for topping
1 tablespoon chopped fresh chives

Directions

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F. Line 2 baking sheets with parchment paper. Bring the corn, butter and salt to a simmer in a medium saucepan over medium heat. Reduce the heat to low, add the flour and stir with a wooden spoon until the mixture is smooth and begins to pull away from the sides of the pan, about 2 minutes.

Scrape the dough into a bowl; let cool slightly. Add the eggs one at a time, stirring well between each addition. Stir in the cheese and chives. Chill the dough 15 minutes.

Scoop tablespoon-size mounds of dough onto the prepared baking sheets, about 2 inches apart. Sprinkle with more cheese. Transfer to the oven and bake until golden brown and puffy, 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm.

English History - 5th November

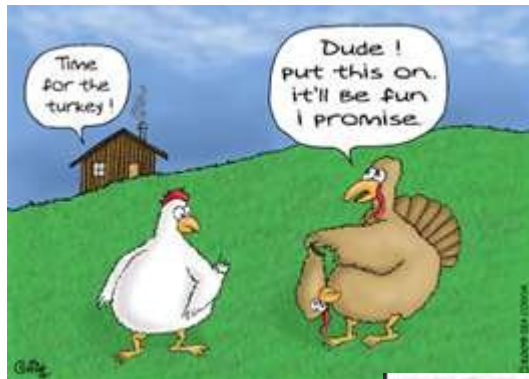

The English, among other talents, are adept at nurturing their grudges. How else does one explain the enduring enmity toward Guy Fawkes, a conspirator in a plot to blow up Parliament in 1605? Some four centuries after Fawkes was caught, tortured and executed for his role in a scheme that never came to fruition, Britons still celebrate his demise each Nov. 5 by burning his likeness in effigy and setting fireworks ablaze.

One of the ironies of Fawkes' legacy is that he was a late addition to the infamous "Gunpowder Plot." Born a Protestant in 1570, Fawkes enlisted in the Spanish army in the Netherlands around 1593, shortly after converting to Catholicism. Co-conspirators Robert Catesby, Thomas Winter, Thomas Percy and John Wright enlisted Fawkes as a ringer.

Fawkes' henchmen were zealous Catholics who believed that by beheading the government, they might usher in a new era of Catholicism in Protestant England. Led by Catesby, they hatched a plan to explode gunpowder under Parliament during a state opening, when King James I, his queen, and other family members and government leaders were inside. The plot was set for Nov. 5, 1605, and in the preceding days, the conspirators rented a cellar underneath the building, where Fawkes stashed at least 20 barrels of gunpowder.

Things didn't go according to plan. The plotters sought wider support, and, as the story goes, one of the individuals to whom they reached out alerted his brother-in-law, a lord, not to attend Parliament on Nov. 5. The building was searched, and Fawkes was apprehended along with his stockpile of gunpowder. Tortured on the rack, he revealed the names of his co-conspirators. Some of them were killed while resisting arrest; others, including Fawkes, pled not guilty and went to trial, where they were convicted of high treason. In January, 1606, the remaining conspirators were hanged, drawn and quartered. Parliament immediately established Nov. 5 as a day of celebration.

Today, Guy Fawkes Day — also known as Bonfire Night — is marked across the United Kingdom by celebrations. To foot the bill for the traditional fireworks, children roam the streets in the days leading up to the event, brandishing their effigies — known as "Guys" — and ask passers-by for a "penny for the guy." Families gather for food and festivities that might seem incongruous with the event's bloody origins — although perhaps not as incongruous as lighting fireworks and bonfires to celebrate an abortive attempt at arson.
